"I AM FREE AT LAST."

ALL THAT WAS MORTAL OF THOMAS A. HENDRICKS IS LAID TO REST.

The Simple but Impressive Rites Over the Remains of the Late Vice President.
Somber Elegance — Beautiful Flowers — Masses of People.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 2.—The business of the city was entirely suspended. There was a tremendous concourse of people from all parts of the nation to witness the simple rites which precede the interment of the mortal remains of Thomas A. Hendricks, vice president of the United States. The heavy fog still hung over the city when the day dawned, but lifted and became less impervious as the hours wore on.

The clergy of the city, without respect to sect, joined in the obsequies, the lectors of the church tolled a requiem, and the presence of the populace in the column which followed his funeral car, or stood silent spectators of the solemn spectacle attested their fidelity to his memory.

Trains arrived during the early hours of the day at the different railway stations bringing delegations from the national capital and all the leading cities of the Union, together with an influx of people from all the adjacent states, all to pay their respects to the body of the beloved statesman.

The cabinet members included Secretary of State Bayard, Secretary Lamar, Secretary Whitney, Secretary Elliott and Postmaster General Vilas. The United States postage bench was represented by Associate Justices Matthews and Blatchford. "The Senate of the United States was represented by senators Edmunds, Allison, Pugh, Harris, Conger, Blair, Deve, Vest, Beck, Camden, Vance, Jones, Voorhees, Payne, Peeler and Harrington. The House of Representatives included W. R. Morrison, J. Blaine, H. B. Hibbert, W. S. Hoiman, W. M. Springer, W. P. Hepburn, S. B. Ward, W. W. Phelps, J. J. Klemmer, Thomas Ryan and F. Dunn. The number of active and emeritus members of the lower house, present in addition to those named was large.

The governor of Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Kentucky were present, attended by their staffs and numerous state officers. The chief representative of the United States army present was Gen. Schofield, and Captains Hunt and Conner, and distinguished guests. The officers and other official delegates were met on the arrival by local sub-committees, and furnished with tickets of admission to St. Paul's Episcopal cathedral, to be present at church services and assigned positions in the funeral column.

The train arrivals swelled the multitude on the streets, and the progress of the military procession on all sides through far-far. Washington street presented a blizzard of humanity hours before the services were entered upon at St. Paul's and long before the passage of the cortege, the windows of the houses along the route were filled with occupants.

The eye rested upon a vast multitude which occupied apparently every average point along the thoroughfare. To numbers of the community began to appear in public the private heralds of the dead. The vice president's death had grown in quantity and until the casket had been carried and placed outside to change. The great audience stood while the organist was enacted. Following him came the organist, followed by the arm of Mr. Morgan, followed by the clergymen relatives, all in deep mourning.

Thirteen pews to right of the central aisle were reserved for the family, while the weeping widows of local committees and the wives of the vice president's death had grown in quantity and until the casket had been carried and placed outside to change. The organist followed by the arm of Mr. Morgan, followed by the clergymen relatives, all in deep mourning.

When the casket had been placed in front of the chancel rail the choir sang the anthem "Lord, Let Us Know Our End." The service for the deceased was read by Rev. Dr. Jenkins. This was followed by the singing of the hymn "Lead Heavenly Light" by the choir, the audience joining. Rev. Dr. Jenkins spoke from the lectures delivered in the service.

When the speaker had concluded Mrs. Doser, of Chicago, sang "Rock of Ages," the bishop closing with prayers and benediction.

The casket was then lifted and borne from the church, the audience remaining seated.

During the progress of the funeral service from the house to the church there was a slight drift of snow in the air, which continued throughout the services in the cathedral.

The column was preceded by a mounted police escort who were followed by the Columbus barracks band and the 1st cavalry.

At 12:30 p.m., the funeral cortège started for the state capital now in the process of construction. On the front door of the house was a black wreath from which was pinned a strip of blue or red, perhaps to denote the national bereavement has fallen with bunting.

THE EVENING BULLETIN

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1868.

ABOUT $11,000,000 were paid out by the Government last week for pensions.

The gross receipts of the postal service for the fiscal year ending June 30, are placed at $42,500,000, the expenditures at $49,602,188, leaving a deficiency of $7,041,344.

GEO. RANDALL was killed near Kelso, Kansas, last week by some unknown party. Randall was a Kentuckian, but from what section of the State is not known.

From the first of October to the 26th of November the Richmond Register says there were shipped from Madison County 100 car-loads of live stock that brought into the county $300,000.

This early bird catches the bronchitis, and loves of early morning walks will find this a true maxim. If we were permitted to make a suggestion, we should whisper: "Use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup."

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND, acting upon the earnest advice of leading Democrats and Republicans, decided to remain at Washington, and did not attend Vice-President Hendrick's obsequies at Indianapolis yesterday.

SEVERAL trouble is anticipated from striking coal miners at Pittsburg. Rendered desperate by suffering, they say they are determined to win the strike if every coal pit on the Monongahela river has to be burned.

MINISTERS and magistrates are doing a lively business in the matrimonial ring at Louisville. There seems to be a regular epidemic broken out among the young folks down there, as forty-six marriage licenses were issued by the County Clerk of Jefferson County last week.

The new anaesthetic, cocaine, is a dangerous drug and needs to be used with care, and under the advice only of a practiced physician, if used at all. A prominent physician of Chicago has been rendered insane by the use of the drug. He has been experimenting with the drug on himself and family for some time, and the health of his wife and unfortunate children has been destroyed too by the experiments.

Of all the distinguished Republicans spoken of as candidates for the Presidency of Senate, none are better fitted for place than Senator Edmunds. He has had an experience in the chair, and has never allowed himself to be blinded with passion and prejudice. Unlike Sherman and Logan, he believes the war is over, and has not tried to revive the bitter memories of former days. In addition to this he is in sympathy with the reform measures inaugurated by President Cleveland.

The convention at Hazel Green, Wolfe County, last week, re-nominated Hon. John E. Cooper for Circuit Judge of that district, and chose L. M. Day, of Wolfe County, as the candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney. Day is said to be more of a farmer than a lawyer, his practice having been confined almost entirely to the Magistrate's courts. It is claimed that he is not qualified for the place. There is bitter and unconcealed hostility to his candidacy among the leading Democrats of Owingsville, the home of Hon. B. D. Lacy, one of the defeated candidates.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette has a just and worthy tribute to one of Kentucky's sons, in the following: "Mr. Carlisle is one of the bravest and most popular men connected with public affairs in Washington. His counsel is valued at the White House and through all the departments. He is regarded as a careful, safe and prudent adviser, who never loses his head, never colors his views from a personal standpoint—just such a man as the times demand for the position he holds. It is a high compliment to the fairness and ability with which he has exercised his office that human jealousy has not yet been able to develop in any quarter the slightest opposition."

The Philadelphia North American, an ancient enemy of the Democratic party, is frank enough to say that "It has recognized the vote by which the Republicans were returned from power last year as a demand for change by the people themselves. The Democratic party is now fully responsible for the conduct of public business. It must be free to select its agents. Theorizing in a chimney corner and actually administering the affairs of more than fifty millions are different affairs. It is morally certain that the administrative officers throughout the vast system of civil service will be Democrats at no distant day. That is expected. It is the fortune of war. But if it proves in the end that public business has not suffered by the change, the masses will not stop to discuss the ethics of partisanship."

JOHN F. KIRKIN DEAD.

A Famous Ex-Confederate, Upon Whose Head There Was a Price.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2.—John Kirkin, of Louisville, and a noted Confederate, died at the Union hotel. He was born in Natches, and graduated from Yale college in the same class as William M. Evarts. He was also a law graduate of Harvard.

Before the war he represented his district in Louisiana in Congress for several terms. When the war broke out he cast his fortunes with the south, and represented his state in the Confederate Congress. Upon the close of the war he went to Mexico, and was with Emperor Maximilian, upon the death of whom he went to Europe and traveled extensively. A price was set upon his head by the United States.

He returned to this country in 1878. His widow is a daughter of the late Judge Mills, of Petersburg, Va. It is related of Mr. Kirkin that in the war, while his plantation was in possession of Federal troops, he set fire to his home and also $2,000 bags of cotton, rather than see them fall into the hands of the enemy.

MR. BAYARD'S BOY.

The Secretary Carr Hite Off-Teaching School—Engaged—The Results.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—A Washington expert to the world says that a society paper there has published a letter from James Bayard, eldest son of the secretary of state, to Miss Doxey, of Fort Pendleton, W. Va. The paper says that after young Bayard's arrest with Butler Mahone and our two other southern sons in Washington some years ago, his father was greatly mortified and cast him off.

The young man went to West Virginia and taught school. Here he met Miss Doxey, and became engaged to her. Mrs. Davis, of West Virginia, befriended young Bayard, but wishing to prevent a marriage that would be distasteful to his father the senator and others used their influence to get the young man appointed secretary of Agriculture. An induction of this kind at this time is regarded as an indication that young Bayard will not go west unless he can take Miss Doxey with him at his wife. The paper adds that it is understood that the secretary still retains his son.

FRY ON GRANT.

The Article in the North American Review—German.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 2.—Gen. Fry's article on Gen. Grant in the last number of the American Review contains the following: "Grant goes far, far to have said since Gen. Grant's death that had it not been for the intervention of God, he would have disappeared into history after Douson?" but that is conjecture.

Gen. Sherman, in answer to the following on the bottom of a copy of the Review: "I don't know what Gen. Fry refers to. Had C. F. Smith been in good health he would have commanded at Shiloh, and his story would have been different."

"What?" he said, as he showed the magazine along the table, "is that all I am willing to say about the matter?"

"Do you remember in Grant in which you might have made such an expression?"

"I don't remember of any. I don't think I ever did."

AB-Awful Dead.

CHATTANOOGA, Dec. 2.—A villainous attempt was made to burn the temporary barracks used for colored soldiers in the home turned to the ground ten days ago from a defective pipe, and the sixty-optional were removed to a school house building in the heart of the city until the orphanage could be completed. July 1st, the men preparing to move the building was discovered to be on fire, and had the discovery been delayed a few moments a dreadful holocaust would have resulted. The entire building is to be replaced with a stone one. Piles of timber were piled near the door. It is thought that some fallen woman whose child had been taken from her was the author of the attempt.

Again Postponed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The case of Joseph T. Holland, the Texan, who is charged with having killed Tom Davis, the sawmill operator, was again postponed.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL QUOTATIONS OF THE STOCK, PRODUCES AND CATTLE MARKET, Dec. 1.

New York—Stocks 2 1/2 per cent. Exchange quiet. Government bonds 5 1/2 per cent.

Currency 12 1/2 1/2 four, coupons 18 1/2 1/2 half-a-cent. 1/2 a cent.

The stock market is dull and gradually lower, but the first hour, on the plan of some supporting order of the bull camp, there was a fractional advance. About 1 o'clock, however, the market became very quiet, and steady condition d up to noon. Under this setting the whole act went-went, and declined 1/2 per cent. Since midday there has been a slight recovery, but the tour o the market is reverberant.

"UNCONSTITUTIONAL"

THE CINCINNATI REGISTRY LAW IS NULL AND VOID.

That is what the Judges of the Supreme Court of Ohio has decided—it bridged the right to the Elective Franchise—There is Joy and sorrow.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2.—The registry law is unconstitutional. The supreme court decided the Daggett habeas corpus case against Owens, Follett, Aberton and Johnson were on the board when Justice Gresham said that the decision of the court was that Edward Daggett be discharged from custody.

No dissenting opinion was spoken, and it is therefore understood that Judge Johnson, Republican, agreed with the decision of the other judges in the case, and that the decision is unanimous. The discharge of Daggett by the court is equivalent to a decision that the legality of law for Cincinnati and Cleveland is unconstitutional. The only ground upon which Daggett's discharge in habeas corpus proceedings was based by John Follett was the constitutionality of the registry law, under which Daggett was arrested and held in custody by Superintendent of Prisons.

Democrats are in high glee over the decision. Under this decision Daggett will at once be discharged, and the Democratic lawyers maintain that the proofs of the Republicans are absurd in the ground that they did not hold anything concerning the mandamus case.

Judge Johnson stated that the court was unanimous in the decision. The opinion, as written out by the judges, will hold the law unconstitutional, and set aside the ground that it abridges the right to elect franchise given by the constitution.

TRAGICALLY SPICY.

A College Professor Takes Care of a Baby.

His Wife Dies.

Sioux Falls, Dak., Dec. 2.—This place is shaken by a scandal. The participants are the Latin and Greek professor of the Sioux Falls university, F. W. Perry; Mrs. Spafford, wife of a Flandreau physician who is visiting here, and the wife of the professor who is visiting here, and the wife of the professor who is visiting here. About 1:30 Saturday morning Mrs. Perry awoke and was not finding her spouse by her side, crossed the hall to the room occupied by Mrs. Spafford, in one of which was her bed, and in the corner a woman was seen, and in the doorway between the doors was the cradle occupied by Mrs. Spafford's baby.

Mrs. Perry tried one door leading to these rooms and found it locked. She was evidently suspicious and being delicate, was also suspicious and was soon able to awake the inmates of the college from the basement to the third story. About the first on the scene were the students and the matron. The body was picked up from the half floor and carried to her room. She kept up her screams for fully fifteen minutes.

About this time Professor Perry came out of one of the rooms, he being in his stocking feet, and was seen to be in a state of great excitement, being called for, he said, he was taking care of Mrs. Spafford's baby; that he had been lying on the couch and did not hear the screams of his wife.

Sunday the board of directors of the college began investigating the matter and were in session up to 8 o'clock at night, when the wife of the professor died from acute congestion of the brain, superinduced by the shock. She became paralyzed for a time and could not articulate plainly what she knew during the time of her rationality before her death.

The board of directors will meet again and the professor will be bound. He has a sum of $4,000 in the college, but this will be paid and he is allowed to depart for pastures new.

COOL MURDER.

Two Families in One House—Until Jars.

The Tragic Ending.

JERSEYVILLE, Ill., Dec. 2.—News comes from Jerseyville that Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Culp last, C. F. Culp moved with his family into a house occupied by an old man named Bold. The understanding was that the Bold would move out, but this they refused to do as a thin-haired grew up between the two families.

Both men worked in distant towns, but both returned to their homes last week. Bold went to market on Friday, and Culp followed him, the two meeting outside his house where he was staying. Mrs. Bold manifested no alarm, even when Culp armed himself with a revolver and went out.

He met Bold in front of his house and emptied his revolver into the latter's back, killing him instantly. Mr. Bold ran out and Culp shot her in the breast, seriously but not fatally wounding her. Bold was sixty-five years old. His body is still lying where it fell, waiting the arrival of the coroner.

A NOTE IN BLOOD.

"God Forgive Both of Us" are the most serious words.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 2.—In the results of the trial in which the body of Peter Bruce was found in the Hudson River, a memorandum book was discovered which in manner settles the question of foul play, which was at first suggested, as only two sovereigns of the dead were known to have been with him when found.

A note was stuck to the book written in Bruce's blood, containing these words: "God forgive both of us."

Bruce has boarded at No. 190 High street, in this city, and arrived in Newark yesterday, three days ago, with a man named Scroggie, with whom he went out on Saturday evening last to go to Castle Garden. Since that time Bruce has not been seen. Scroggie stated that he left Bruce in New York intoxicated. The police are unable to make out the exact movement and there will probably be a search.

CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 2.—The attempt made by the management of the Gloucester Gingling mills to start up the works at the old rates without employing any one of the striking weavers proved a failure. But three heads came to work and the attempt was entirely postponed.

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—The Baptist minister's conference at its weekly meeting adopted a preamble and resolutions declaring that W. W. Dowd had disgraced his profession and damaged the cause of Christ, and expelling him from membership.
